Dynamics of Biblical Change

Your conversations with others are determined by how you understand God, yourself, other people, life's pressures, and, of course, the process of change. Dynamics of Biblical Change addresses these things and more. It describes how Christ's past grace, present grace, and future grace speak to our hearts and change the way we live our daily lives.

This course is about people and the way they (and we) face the troubles of life. It is about dealing with our inner struggles and changing into the likeness of Christ. Through Scripture, online lectures, assigned readings and case studies, you'll explore these practical ministry questions. Two personal-change projects are key to applying the principles of the course personally.

CCEF Lecturer: David Powlison (1949-2019)

David served as CCEF's executive director, as a faculty member, and as senior editor of the Journal of Biblical Counseling. He held a PhD from the University of Pennsylvania and an MDiv from Westminster Theological Seminary.

David wrote extensively on biblical counselling and on the relationship between faith and psychology. His books Seeing with New Eyes and Speaking Truth in Love probe the implications of Scripture for how to understand people and how to counsel. The Biblical Counseling Movement: History and Context explores the background and development of CCEF's mission. David's later books include God's Grace in Your suffering, How Does Sanctification work?, Good and Angry, and his final work, Safe and Sound, which was published posthumously.

Helping Relationships

This course is intended to enhance your interpersonal ministry skills both in everyday and more intentional conversations. The skills are organised in two parts: skills to know people, and skills to apply Scripture.

Note: This course has two important features: you will take part in Community Group discussions with fellow students during the fortnightly seminars, and you will meet weekly for an hour with someone (usually from your church) to put into practice what you are learning in Helping Relationships. Information about these activities is supplied in your course materials.

Learning Goals

By the end of this course, you will be able to:

- Understand the principles and practicalities of interpersonal ministry

- Show an awareness of the character attributes that are necessary to engage in interpersonal ministry well
- Connect interpersonal ministry methods with their theological foundations
- Establish foundational skills in interpersonal ministry - particularly conversational skills - that can be built upon in the years to come
- Offer those conversational skills within the local church in ways that encourage others and promote growth.

CCEF Lecturer: Ed Welch

Ed Welch is a faculty member and counsellor at CCEF where he has served since 1981. He holds a PhD in counselling (neuro-psychology) from the University of Utah and an MDiv degree from Biblical Theological Seminary. Ed is a licensed psychologist and has been active in local church ministry for decades. He has written numerous books, including When People Are Big and God Is Small; Shame, Interrupted; Side by Side: Walking with Others in Wisdom and Love and Created to Draw Near.

Church Pastoral care³

What will it look like when conversational ministry is established in a local church?

The purpose of this course is:

- to enable students to better understand the nature and purpose of church
- to help students understand the nature of pastoral care and its development over the centuries to equip students to understand their ministry context and see opportunities for pastoral care to flourish
- to envision students with a range of ways in which conversational ministry could be embedded in their local church
- to see the importance of both public and private ministry of the Word and how they inter-relate
- to help students to play a part in growing a culture of care in their local congregation
- to encourage students to engage in conversational ministry in ways that are safe, collaborative and wise

Topics covered include:

Church as community; pastoral care and evangelism; praying for your church; a brief history of pastoral care and the modern biblical counselling movement; every member ministry in the local congregation; the role of pastors and elders; pastoral care structure; creating cultures of care; confidentiality; supervision; boundaries; church discipline and the role of parachurch organisations.

Foundation Skills Day

Foundation Skills Days are offered in all our geographical locations, usually towards the end of the Spring term. This optional in-person training day will help students develop the skills taught in the Helping Relationships course, building on the understanding of the person and change taught in Dynamics of Biblical Change. It offers an opportunity to observe and practice interpersonal skills within a biblical model.

The aim of the day is to help students grow in having more fruitful one-to-one conversations. Specifically, the skills areas will be:

- Knowing a person through listening, understanding and connecting with them.
- Knowing the Lord during a conversation through seeing how another person's life connects with the story of Scripture, being able to share that truth and then to bring it to the Lord in prayer.

The day comprises interactive teaching, observation videos, reflection and dyad practice. Led by BCUK tutors, it is open to all students who have taken DBC and HRE (or who are in the process of taking HRE). Students may attend whichever location and date is convenient for them.

The Skills Day is not required to gain a Foundation Certificate, but please note that students wishing to take the Advanced Skills Training (due to be offered in the 2026-27 academic year) will need to have attended both a Foundation Skills Day, and an Intermediate Skills Day.

Intermediate Certificate

Courses to be offered from the 2025-26 academic year

Scripture for Life and Ministry

Scripture is authoritative and sufficient for ministry (2 Timothy 3:16-17; 2 Peter 1:3-4), but how do you connect God's Word effectively to the lives and struggles of people around you? Do you frequently turn to the same familiar passages, but are less confident in using other biblical passages to communicate the power of God's love and faithfulness in the Gospel? How do you use the Bible's redemptive story in conversational ministry so that those you are speaking with grow in their knowledge of and love for the sovereign Lord? This course will help you understand both people and the Bible more thoroughly and is designed to strengthen your ability to rivet Scriptural truth to real-life ministry situations.

Through lectures, class discussion, and interpretive assignments, you'll develop your skills in interpreting and applying any passage of Scripture to help people to grow in love for God and others more fully in the midst of their complex, daily lives.

In this course, you will:

- Grow in excitement and passion for the personal application of God's Word in your own life and in the lives of others.
- Learn and practice a method of biblical interpretation that makes connections between the details of particular passages and the wider story of Scripture that centres on Jesus Christ
- Practice moving from Scripture to life by making gospel-centred connections between specific passages and the particulars of a person's life.
- Practise moving from life to Scripture by learning to frame people's struggles in ways that naturally connect with particular biblical themes and passages.

CCEF Lecturer: Mike Emlet

Mike Emlet is a counsellor and Dean of Faculty at the Christian Counseling and Educational Foundation (CCEF). He holds an MD from the University of Pennsylvania and an MDiv degree from Westminster Theological Seminary. He worked as a family physician for over ten years before joining CCEF in 2001. Mike has counselled for many years and has particular interests in working with ministry leaders and with those who struggle with anxiety, depression, and OCD. He writes regularly for The Journal of Biblical Counseling and is the author of CrossTalk: Where Life and Scripture Meet, which explores the use of Scripture in counselling, as well as Descriptions and Prescriptions: A Biblical Perspective on Psychiatric Diagnoses and Medications. His latest book is Saints, Sufferers, and Sinners: Loving Others As God Loves Us. Mike is married to Jody, and they have two children. He enjoys gardening, camping, and various artistic endeavours.

Relationships in Life and Church

Our Trinitarian God exists in relationship and, as those made in his image, it is no surprise that relationships are central to our lives. God calls us to relate to him in faith and to our neighbours in love. At their best, relationships bring us the richest blessings we can know. At their worst, they bring us the very deepest pain. What vision does the Bible set for our relationships? And what remedies does it offer when our relationships struggle? This course will consider some of the foundational principles that underpin all of our relationships and how those principles should shape our relational life both in the specifics of church and in life more broadly.

Helping Everyday Problems

We want to walk alongside others in ways that offer compassion, hope and transformation, and we do that as we seek to effectively connect God's Word to their everyday struggles. But how can we grow in doing that well? Are we able to understand common pastoral problems biblically? And from there have wise and helpful conversations that are relevant to life and centred on Christ? And how will we engage the community of care that the local church provides? This course will help you understand common life struggles biblically and lead you to walk wisely and well with those who struggle.
